Purpose

The purpose of this playbook is to introduce you to an opportunity to engage teachers, parents, school administrations, and your community in conversations about family well-being, inspiring community engagement to uplift and nurture Georgia’s families.

By engaging your community around conversations focused on improving family well-being, you provide the opportunity for them to think critically about how you can come together to support Georgia’s families. You will foster a sense of importance and belonging amongst your community – and you and your participants will receive calls to action as a follow up that will increase engagement. By bringing together your community with an Inclusivv conversation, you provide the platform for fostering more community collaboration around Georgia’s families’ well-being.

Inclusivv has partnered with the Georgia Division of Family and Children’s Services to create 6 unique conversation topics with 3 structured questions that will lead you and your audience on a shared learning journey - followed up by calls to actions that increase engagement, provide resources, and continue to foster change in Georgia.

Being involved with a community's school makes you a leader in your community – this makes you a perfect candidate to bring conversations to your community that will allow space to reflect on how the community and school can come together to best serve their families.

Where to host

Host a Family and Child Well-Being conversation.

Family Well-Being conversations give space for families and community members to inform you and your peers about important issues that affect their day to day lives – issues that you may be a support in solving.

Invite your congregation to attend a conversation that will allow you to hear individual concerns from families and community members that can inform your decision making for a better, more thriving community for all.

Host a conversation at:

- a conference room during a faculty meeting
- a classroom or gymnasium during a school event
- your school library with parent volunteers

Who to invite

Do you engage with teachers, childcare providers or educators?

Invite them to join you in a conversation about child well-being.

You can also invite:

- Administrators
- School board members
- Parents

Develop a deeper understanding of what children and families need to thrive with a healthy work-life balance and build further trust and stronger relationships with your policy makers and educators as you engage them in conversations about their families' well-being.

What you get

With an Inclusivv Family & Child Well-Being conversation, we provide an easy framework to structure your conversation. You simply lead the conversation, let each participant share, listen, and learn. By hosting these conversations, you obtain real life evidence to support your policy making decisions.

From these conversations you will:

- Increase stakeholder satisfaction.
- Create positive organizational engagement.
- Grow your social network.
- Increase community engagement.
- Nurture safe environments for Georgia's families.
- Promoting a family-first environment

"Conversation is a powerful engagement method to encourage self-organizing communities to listen, debate and share ideas on a set of issues, challenges or opportunities."
